

THE MOOG CENTER FOR DEAF EDUCATION

Where Deaf Children Talk

TASL-II WORKSHOPS

The Moog Center for Deaf Education is offering virtual and in-person sessions for professionals and future professionals working with students who are deaf or hard of hearing.

This is an opportunity for graduate students, teachers of the deaf, and speech-language pathologists to enhance their strategies and techniques for accelerating their students' progress in listening and spoken language using the TASL-II.

Workshop Opportunities:

- 90-minute overview: general explanation of what the TASL-II is and how it can be effectively used with children who are deaf or hard of hearing.
- Half-day workshop: general explanation of what the TASL-II is and how to effectively use it with children who are deaf or hard of hearing, including assessment, lesson planning, and IEP development.
- Full-day workshop: detailed explanation of what the TASL-II is and how to effectively use it with children who are deaf or hard of hearing, including assessment, lesson planning, and IEP development. Opportunities will be provided for language sample analysis, identifying targets, and observing sample lessons.

Other Learning Opportunities provided by the Moog Center for Deaf Education:

- Customized Workshops
- Staff in-services
- Peer in-services
- Coaching
- Consultations

We teach children who are deaf or hard of hearing to talk,
and we teach others to do it, too.
